Zelko Views On "Speaking"

I read with interest and some concern the article in the May-June issue by Mr. Dowling on "A Two-Hour Course in Speaking," and his letter in the September-October issue indicating the interest in this by Journal readers. I also see your note indicating that he will have a follow-up article in an early issue.

I would like to submit an article on a title such as "What is Effective Speaking?" as a partial reply to Mr. Dowling and also to set forth my own views in the subject and suggestions for training in this area. I would be pleased if such an article could appear in the same issue as his

Materials For Thailand

. Out here, in-service training is so badly needed in government. Political upheavals have a profound effect on the public service . . . A large selection of Communist publications from Russia and Red China is available at the book store just outside the University gates.

Training Directors in the United States have responded well to requests for material from Thai training personnel. We are, however, limited in personnel, time and information as to sources, and unable to make sufficient requests. Any material, regardless of subject, will ultimately find its place and usage.

It would be greatly appreciated if you could inform your readers of this need. Single copies of training materials may be sent to the Department of Government, University of Indiana, Bloomington, Indiana, for transmission to the Institute of Public Administration Project in Thailand. Since the material will be translated and reproduced for distribution to government training personnel, materials should be accompanied by permission to translate and reproduce.

The Institute of Public Administration in Bangkok is supported by funds from the International Cooperation Administration through a contract with Indiana University.
