Highlights from the 2018 DevLearn Conference

Thursday, Nov 29, 2018 5:30 PM - 7:15 PM

Location: Bohannan Huston (7500 Jefferson St. NE | NE corner of Jefferson and Masthead)

Program Description: The 2018 DevLearn national conference took place on October 24-26 in Las Vegas. This conference presented what is currently happening at the forefront in the learning technologies industry. You will hear about the latest in cutting-edge technologies and approaches of today, and how to prepare yourself for what's coming. You will learn about the tools and knowledge you will need to put the evolving landscape of learning technologies into the context of your own company or organization's learning and training needs, for today and tomorrow.

Speaker Bio:

Peter Heald attended the 2018 DevLearn conference, and will share his highlights from the conference. Peter has over 20 years of instructional design and eLearning development experience, and has been a Multimedia Specialist and Instructional Designer at Sandia National Labs for 12 years. His areas of specialty are in the interface design and technical implementation of computer-based training. Peter has a MA in OLIT from the University of New Mexico.
